Pastor's Corner

Dear Parishioners and Visitors,
To the Ends of the Earth: Final Day of the National Eucharistic Congress

The National Eucharistic Congress in the US city of Indianapolis concluded with the celebration of Holy Mass and a homily by Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle, who calls for a renewed commitment to Eucharistic and missionary conversion. Reflecting on the theme of the National Eucharistic Congress, from the Gospel of John “Remain in Me”, Pope Francis’ special envoy to the event highlighted Jesus’ mission as a gift from the Father. "Jesus is sent to be given by the Father to others," Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle said during his homily, and he explained that the Eucharist encapsulates this gift, as Jesus offers His body and blood for the life of the world. He challenged the faithful to see their own lives and the world through the lens of gift rather than mere achievement. "Do we still look at ourselves, persons, objects, work, society, events, and creation within the horizon of gift?" he asked, warning that losing this perspective leads to self-absorption and a lack of missionary zeal. "Is it possible that we disciples contribute to the departure of others from Jesus?" he asked, urging a deeper engagement with the Eucharist and its transformative power. Cardinal Tagle finally conveyed the blessings and prayers of Pope Francis, whom he said wrote him a letter expressing the hope “that the participants of the Congress, fully aware of the universal gifts they receive from heavenly food, may impart them to others.” "When the priest or deacon says, 'The Mass is ended. Go in the peace of Christ,' please go! What you have heard, touched, and tasted, you must share with others," he exclaimed. Viva Cristo Rey!
